With the green of old Erin and the attendant shamrocks, claypipes and Irish humor furnishing the theme, members of the Lomita Kiwanis club entertained their ladies and a number of Torrance Kiwanians with their wives at a gala "ladies' night" dinner-program and dance last night in Artisans hall. ## Players Plan 'Sales' Drive

Awaiting final word from the executive committee, the publicity group headed by Jack Hallanger, is ready to spring its first move "to sell the Torrance Community Players to the townspeople," according to President James Wilkes. Business men and women and heads of civic, fraternal and business organizations will be called on to support this plan, whereby those interested in amateur dramatics will have an opportunity to show their talents.

The first Players' production, under direction of W. J. Faris, is now scheduled for presentation April 13 at the Civic Auditorium. The executive committee is already looking forward to several future shows and is seeking new material for memberships.

All persons in the community who desire to participate in the Players' activities are invited to leave their names and addresses at the Chamber of Commerce so that they can be notified of the organization's plans and meetings.

The picture marks the first co-starring appearance of Miss Shearer and Gable since their success together in "A Free Soul" and "Strange Interlude."

FAST TRAVELING!... Claudette Colbert and Herbert Marshall, reckless lovers of Paramount's "Zaza," which opens Sunday at the Torrance theatre, embark on a train ride which leads them straight to scandal and tragedy. Miss Colbert plays a famed music hall flit; Marshall a philandering man of society.
